EISENHOWER DANCE DETROIT

LET'S MOVE

IN-SCHOOL RESIDENCY

Residency programs bring EDD dancers into schools to teach students about the art of dance and creative expression. Residencies can include lecture demonstration assemblies, creative movement and composition workshops, team-building activities, technique master classes, community performances and classroom visitations for participation and discussion. Residencies can be designed for 1-6 weeks.

LET'S MOVE! ASSEMBLY

Eisenhower Dance Detroit presents a dynamic, athletic, and engaging school assembly performance in a lecture-demonstration format. Through fun and interactive audience participation, entertaining and age-appropriate repertory excerpts, and informative narration, company members inspire students to learn, create and enjoy dance.

*This assembly can be presented live or on a virtual platform.

LET'S MOVE! MINI CONCERT

Eisenhower Dance Detroit emphasizes the artistry of dance in this narrated mini-concert. Designed to offer audiences the concert dance experience in a shortened format, the repertory can be "mixed and matched" to meet each school or community's needs.

RESIDENCY

EDD offers a customizable residency program for college/university dance departments. One to three week residencies can include master classes in ballet, contemporary, composition, Pilates, Gyrokinesis and more. Choreographic commissions can include original work by EDD Artistic Director, Stephanie Pizzo, or restagings by EDD dancers. Residencies can also culminate with a performance by EDD with the commissioned student work as part of the concert.

"...I loved getting to talk to and meet most of the dancers! Every class was different and fun. It was cool taking class with a few of the company members and seeing what rehearsals look like in a professional company. "
